THINKING PINK

One of the most coveted and valuable varieties in the fancy colored diamond family, pink diamonds have smashed sales records at top auction houses in recent years. Among the ranks of these prized pinks is this stunning unmounted three-carat fancy intense pink diamond, the latest offering from The One and Only Collection.

Sourced from Africa, Type IIa stones like this one are the very rarest of their kind, representing just one to two percent of all gem diamonds in the world. Thanks to its size, clarity, and softly sweet hue, the GIA-certified stone is highly wearable and would make for an extraordinary engagement or right-hand ring. Not to mention a very sound investment: Pink diamonds of this size have doubled in value over the last five years (price available upon request).
