A Powerful Blue

At nearly 4 carats, the Fancy Gray-Blue diamond is a rare example of the limited production of South Africa's Cullinan Mine*. Accented by a hint of gray, it is flanked by two Pear-shaped yellow diamonds to bring out its powerful blue color. It has received a clarity grading of VS1 from the GIA.

The Fancy Gray-Blue diamond is set on a ring of 18K yellow gold with pavé yellow diamonds.

"This is the one of the largest and most mesmerizing blue diamonds we have seen in many years," said Joe Padulo, CEO of Padulo Privé, a company that advises high-end jewelers and luxury brands. "Whether you're collecting your first blue diamond, or diversifying an investment portfolio, this Fancy Gray-Blue is a magnificent heirloom in the making."

Once in a Blue Moon

Natural blue diamonds are among the rarest and most sought-after of all Fancy Color Diamonds. In fact, a blue diamond recently broke the record for the world's most valuable gemstone. In November 2015, at Sotheby's Geneva, a 12.03-carat Internally Flawless Fancy

Vivid Blue diamond – The Blue Moon – sold for $48.5 million, or $4 million per carat, also breaking the price-per-carat record.

Blue Diamonds: A High-Performance Asset Class

According to the Fancy Color Price Index™ published by the Fancy Color Research Foundation (FCRF), Fancy Color Diamonds -- across pinks, yellows and blues -- increased in value by 167 percent on average between January 2005 and October 2015, outperforming most other leading assets in a similar period.

The FCRF reports that Fancy Blue diamonds increased in value by 186.3 percent on average between 2005 and 2014.
